Ken Scott

Ken Scott, an american avant-garde and revolutionary artist, was born in 1918. From a very young age he shows a strong passion for painting, that leads him to study in New York. His pictorial art becomes his true craft along with his other numerous passions. Following his free and curious spirit, Ken Scott moves to Europe in 1946 and in 1955 definitely settles down in Milan, where he creates the Falconetto brand.

"One day I started designing fabrics; that was the end of my painting career". Starting from textiles, the artist revolutionises the style of the time. Its distinctive signs are bright and sunny colors in unpredictable combinations and joyful flowers.

From the early '60s he designs clothes and accessories that make him famous all over the world. Ken Scott's patterns are worn by Italian and foreign celebrities, actresses and princesses, from Audrey Hepburn to Monica Vitti, from Brigitte Bardot to Mina. His fashion shows are amazing, each event reveals an unforgettable varying temperament and an extraordinary creative spirit.

Eats & Drinks is the restaurant Ken Scott opens in Milan in 1969. He designs everything, including furnishings, forks, glasses, plates and lamps, in a practical demonstration of his unbridled applied art. He is able to unconsciously anticipate the "food mood" explosion of the following decades.

Ken Scott is also architect and landscape designer. In 1979, during an interview he calls himself a "gardener". The artist thinks that plants and flowers represent the intrinsic essence of beauty. He has an innate talent for decorating with greenery. "Fashion Gardener" is the definition used by others to describe his amazing ability to plant and grow colourful flowers and fantastic gardens on fabric.

Ken Scott's drawings, which keep the names originally coined by the artist, take on new life thanks to this unprecedented collaboration with Gabel, a proposal made of disruptive colors, energy and originality for the house. The collection is the result of a careful and meticulous selection among thousands of designs owned by Ken Scott Foundation, located in the headquarters of Mantero, the Como based historic silk industry, which in 2019 acquired the brand. All the drawings are kept in a rich archive, testimony of an extraordinary and boundless artist.
